

Dear Families,

I hope that you are all doing well and staying healthy. These are days to think about creative ways that will keep us in touch with each other. I truly miss seeing and making music with your children on Friday afternoons. In the meantime, I would like to share this video of two wonderful musicians that you might already be familiar with. They both, for many years, have been making music for children and they found each other in life and together they make the most fun and creative music ever! During these days of social isolation, they created a daily video from their home that I would like to share with you and your children. I highly recommend following them with your children. They will make your day, every day!

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=-LTUcT7pOiM&feature=share>

I am also sharing their professional website if you would like to learn more about them and their music.

<https://www.danandclaudia.com/>

Enjoy!
Stay healthy,

Patricia Espinosa
(After School music specialist)